Not illustrated. 1871 Excerpt: ...was made in the convention to provide in the judiciary article for a submission to a vote of the people in 1873 the questions whether the judges of the Supremo and Circuit Courts should not thereafter be appointed by the Governor, and hold office during life or good behavior. The subject was referred to the Judiciary Committee, but never reported on. Another innovation which was proposed, but not adopted, was one giving juries in all criminal cases the privilege if in their minds the evidence warrants it, besides the verdict of guilty, or not guilty, to also bring in a verdict of not found --such verdict of not found to leave the accused in the same situation as now under the law, when a justice of the peace discharges a prisoner on the examining trial, or when the grand jury ignores the bill in such case. Among the general provisions of the judiciary article as adopted is the following: Section-81. All judges of Courts of Record, inferior to the Supreme Court, shall, on or before the first day of June, of each year, report in writing to the judges of the Supreme Court such defects and omissions in the laws as their experience may suggest; and the judges of the Supreme Courts shall, on or before the first day of January, of each year, report in writing to the Governor such defects and omissions in the constitution and laws as they may find to exist, together with appropriate forms of bills to cure such defects and omissions in the laws. And the judges of the several Circuit Courts shall report to the next General Assembly the number of days they have held court in the several counties comprising their respective circuits the preceding two years. The seventh article relates to the right of suffrage, and the section conferring that privilege...
