

Atheists Say the Nastiest Things

The purpose of the book is to comfort, encourage, and equip Christians to deal with belligerent intimidation in the public square. Though not all atheists are mean and abusive, many are. We must not cower; we must challenge, confront, and contest for truth. Much atheistic attack originated with intellectuals long dead. The book identifies dozens of ideas still in vogue that we hear not only in books but in the media, the arts, entertainment, and popular culture. Understanding and recognizing where these ideas came from equips us to deal with the core issues they raise. At the end of the book is a section called Resources for Inquiring Minds -- a treasure chest of highly valuable works by some of the best contemporary Christian thinkers. The Apostle Paul declared, We demolish arguments and every pretension that sets itself up against the knowledge of God, and we take captive thought to make it obedient to Christ. We demolish arguments; we don't crush people in the process. We expose pretensions, yet with respect for the human beings behind the masks. Later chapters focus on atheistic self-worship: egotism, elitism, moral anarchy, and frustration with reality that refuses to yield to the individual's wishes. Christians are not immune to these sins. We must battle our own self-centered nature as well. Only the Word of God, energized by the Holy Spirit is sufficient for that fight. The Christian soldier will find this book absorbing and useful as well.
