

Class Dismissed: Im Going Hunting!

Class Dismissed is a look at the adventures of a high school social studies teacher who hunts around the world. Without the benefit of sponsors or freebies, the author goes on safari in Africa, up to the Canadian provinces and around the fifty states. This anthology of hunting stories brings humor and excitement to the senses as real life hunts are described as they happen. And most adventures told without too much exaggeration! Come along on deer, bison, pronghorn antelope and wild boar hunts. Feel the bow in your hand as you venture into the field after game and on many occasions bring home the bacon. No pun intended! Go on exciting bow hunts for mountain lion and black bear. Feel the mountains while reading about elk hunting. For the traditional bowhunter, there are stories of first hunts, first deer, many frustrations and sweet victory. For the turkey hunter, here are some hunts that you will appreciate and even laugh as you can relate to the excitement and challenge of the hunt. Class Dismissed invites family and friends to investigate the outdoors, share in some hunts and witness the majesty of the outdoors. Family stories also show another side of this hunter.
