

Divine Destruction (The Return of Divinity Book 1)

The Archangel Gabriel has forged a life of servitude and compliance. He takes great pleasure in his nominal duties of reviewing the work of other Archangels and his apartment filled with memories of Earth. But when the blind angel Sophrasel summons Gabriel to appear before the Principles, the Archangel fears the worst for himself and the small blue world. Having endured the pain of traversing the rift between universes and having traveled across dozens of light-years to reach Earth, Gabriel is confronted with a never-before situation - the human body chosen for the Archangel can reject his possession. If Gabriel fails to teach man-kind the meaning behind all of his previous visits he will be forced to call down the Archangels and destroy humanity. In order for Gabriel to succeed he must appeal Gods Law of Angels and be permitted free will upon Earth. This is where the body count begins.
