

RIDING THE CURRENT: HOW TO DEAL WITH THE DAILY DELUGE OF DATA

In Riding the Current, Madelyn Blair shares ways ordinary and extraordinary people from around the world address the limits of time and budget, massive overdoses of information, and even lack of management skill to stay current in a fast-paced world. You'll learn new ways to keep your knowledge fresh through conscious self-guided learning that is grounded in the world around us! This book will help you discover ways in which your learning occurs outside the classroom and beyond books. Knowledge workers can learn how to overcome information overload, learn faster, think more clearly, and be ready for the next step. Managers are provided step by step guidance to build team learning and knowledge sharing, create the capacity to learn more than the competition, and make better decisions. Executives gain insights into creating a learning organization that is ready and poised for the next opportunity.
