

I Hate to Be Late: Great Strategies to Help You Be On Time

- Do you hate the awful feeling of being late, AGAIN? - Have you tried everything you can think of to be on time? You are not alone. And there is hope! When Leslie Ann Cardinal told her friends and family that she was writing a about how to not be late, most of them laughed. And she had to laugh with them, because being late has been a challenge for her for most of her life. But she was ready to do something about it. So she wrote a New Years resolution and set out to learn how to be more on time. I Hate to Be Late isnt a critical book filled with shoulds and condemnation. Instead, you will find hope, encouragement, and specific action strategies to help you succeed in being more on time in every part of your life.

Leslie asked her friends and colleagues about their favorite strategies for being on time. She experimented with their techniques to see which would work well for her. The result is this book. In I Hate To Be Late, Leslie shares the techniques that have worked so well for her. She also includes the strategies that her friends and colleagues offered so that you can try their techniques too. If you want practical ideas and techniques that really work, read this book! Leslie Ann Cardinal is a former industrial engineer and corporate leadership trainer who is now an entrepreneur and success coach. She works with people and organizations to maximize their productivity and to accelerate their business success.
