

Natural Science: Evocation through Inspiration and Beauty

Science has the potential to fill the minds of everyone interested in giving her a chance, but it seems that the growing population is ignoring its marvel. Why is this? Have we become too blind to appreciate the beauty of our universe and all of the life that thrives within? Is there no hope to inspire the minds of our children with a new sense of wonderment? Are worthless sitcoms alone bound to control our total sense of pleasure? This book serves to intervene in the ever-changing flow of society and attempts to reunite people with the beauty of science. Come explore true magic with our scientists as they speak about their passions in the various fields!
