

Lesbian Conception 101: An easy-to-follow, how-to get started guide for lesbians thinking about getting pregnant tomorrow or in a couple of years

You've decided you want to have a baby... now what? How do you decide on a donor? Where do you find lesbian pregnancy advice? What artificial insemination technique should you (or do you need to) use? How much is this all going to cost? How do you even get started? What is the best way to get pregnant? There are a lot of different ways lesbians can make a baby. In this practical (and sometimes hilarious) guide, Kathy Borkoski of LesbianConception101.com walks you through your options and helps you decide what is best for your situation. By giving you all the information she and her wife learned over a year of inseminations, ultrasounds, and questions to their patient doctor and lesbian mom friends, she shows you how to get started on your own path to pregnancy. In this how-to guide, you will be given:  A glossary for all the confusing processes and jargon  Easy-to-follow steps to get you started  Questions you should be asking each other to make the tough decisions  Cost estimates so you can plan for the real expenses of lesbian babymaking  Stories from real lesbian moms about their journeys Don't waste more time googling and asking around... get the basics and start making your family!
