

Consumer & Patient Engagement (Top Talks of 2013)

After more than twenty years in clinical practice, I embarked on the then new field of medical informatics. Health information technology can transform healthcare. Consumer-patient engagement is fundamental to healthcare reform and innovative health information technology can enable consumer-patient engagement. My presentation explains why consumer-patient engagement is essential for healthcare reform and what it is. I then discuss how health information technology can be used to engage consumers and patients, examples of new applications, and the role of social media.
