

The Murphys Story: The History of Ladys Well Brewery, Cork

This is a history of an Irish brewery, as well as a family saga and a social and cultural account spanning two centuries. The Murphy family, who founded Ladys Well Brewery, was one of Ireland's original merchant prince families, and made its fortune in the importing, tanning, distilling and brewing industries. The story of the brewery, its stout and its people gives insights into the economy, society and culture of Ireland in the 19th and 20 centuries. The backdrop is provided by major events such as the Great Irish Famine, two World Wars, the War of Independence and the Civil War. The story is people by characters such as: John Murphy, The Black Eagle of the North; James J. Murphy, who headed the brewery for its first 40 years and was also a significant figure in Irish banking; and Eugene Sandow, the strongman, who endorsed Murphys stout and gave it its most enduring image. Donal O. Drisceoil is the author of Censorship in Ireland 1939-1945 and Neutrality, Politics and Society.
