

Self-Service IT: Just Plug In v.1: Cartoons & Commentary

No longer can Corporate IT claim the sole control of defining solutions for using Information Technology. Business managers are rising up and demanding an independence from central corporate control. They have grown up with computers and the internet and they have no fear of technology. They are innovators that can see how their business can run more effectively and reach more markets. Business Managers want self-service IT. The cartoons and commentary in this book describe how they will be able to just plug in with the help of their Enterprise Architects.
