

Digital Superman

Navy SEAL Clarke Unger came home from Iraq a changed man; a renegade military doctor had implanted him with chips that enabled him to use his brain as a computer. No computer on earth could match what Clarke was able to do by simply thinking about it. No firewall or security system could match the power of his mental CPU. Leaving the military and the Iraqi desert, Clarke figured his job was done and he was finished with his part of the war on terror. Or so he thought. He planned to spend his weekends enjoying the company of his best friend, Kayla. Enter Max Trunker, another ex-SEAL, and Hagan Warren, the powerfully connected CEO of Parsec Defense Systems. Warren would stop at nothing to acquire Clarke's power. Max Trunker would stop at nothing to have beautiful Kayla for his very own. When Trunker takes Kayla hostage, and with terrorists planning to explode a nuclear EMP device above North America, Clarke's newfound faith in God and his cyber superpowers make him a key player in a titanic struggle between Homeland Security and those who would permanently destroy western civilization.
