

Visions Of Hell: Dreams Of An Atheist

Can atheists have visions? There are many stories of Christians who have had visions, either during near-death experiences or sleep. Often, these involve visits to Heaven. Stories of nonbelievers having such visions are rarer, though. Why is that? Does one need a divine presence to have visions? Or are all these visions actually just dreams and hallucinations, which believers elevate to mystic status, while atheists accept them as mere brain tricks? If atheists did have visions, would they be of Heaven? While one atheist pondered this question, she was visited with a series of dreams that took her somewhere strange. But were they mere dreams, or was she given a glimpse of Hell, and a dire warning? Read the true story of her dreams, and her own judgments of them, and judge for yourself.
