

The Journal of Prison Discipline and Philanthropy (Classic Reprint)

Editorial Board, in the discharge of the duties assigned them, have prepared the following Annual Report, which they beg leave to present to the Society for its adoption: Introduction. This being the first time that an Annual Report has become a part of the regular proceedings of the Philadelphia Society for Alleviating the Miseries of Public Prisons, it seems a fitting occasion to take a wider range than is generally done in the preparation of such papers; and especially does it seem proper to bring into view the origin of the Society the motives which prompted its organization, and some of the labors in which it has been engaged since its establishment, with the fruit of those labors. It will be seen that being but little known in the community, is not because it has been without vitality during its existence of nearly three-fourths of a century, but because it has steadily pursued its benevolent course, quietly and unostentatiously, not proclaiming its doings, or coming out before the public, excepting at such times as the accomplishment of some object of special importance required it. Before proceeding in the narration, it is proper to mention, that the examination into the history of the Society during its earlier period, has been facilitated by referring to a pamphlet which it published about three years since, containing a sketch of its principal transactions from its origin to that time.
