The Satan Paradox: And Other Biblical Plot Holes and Questions is a book for both Theists and Atheists. For Christians, this book deals with biblical and religious questions that many Christians have asked before, with Gods existence as an assumption. Some of these questions include: Should we stop bowing before Virgin Mary and Jesus statues? Why were the Jews Gods Chosen People? Should women keep quiet in church? and many more. For Atheists, this book exposes the plot holes in the Bible as well as asking the questions Christians would never want answered. Some of these include the impossibility of Noahs Ark, the ridiculousness of Jonah and the Whale, evidence that Jesus was not the Messiah, faith being taught instead of felt, as well as compelling evidence that the Christian Satan is false and can therefore invalidate Christianity. Using humor, logic, scientific evidence, expert advice, and the Bible itself, author Jose Ortiz compels everyone to re-evaluate their faith and see that they do not need a book of mythical stories to be good human beings.
