

The Smell of Pine: someone spent a lot of time with pine cones and sap as a child (Works by Carolyn Bentley Book 3)

Short Excerpt: The little girl came running out and climbed straight up the trunk of the tree. This time with tears streaming down her face. The girl was almost in hysterics. Yelling could be heard from within. The little girl seemed extremely agitated. The tree was for her a place of escape. It was a place to get away from the world and its troubles. To such a small person with a huge imagination the tree seemed immense and could easily conceal the outside world and its problems. Her biggest worry was the ugly brown bugs crawling around under the bark.
