

I Think Ill Think A Thought

I Think Ill Think A Thought is the story of an atheist child who want nothing more than to make his way down the sidewalk to the Natural History Museum where he plans to tour an exhibit on evolution. As the curious boy travels towards his destination, he is repeatedly stopped by religious leaders of various denominations, all attempting to divert the young lad from his course and steer him into their twisted version of reality. Will the young atheist make it to the museum in time to see the exhibit on evolution, or will he fall prey to one of the religions he encounters along the way? Proceeds from the sale of this book will go towards having it professionally illustrated so that children everywhere can enjoy a story that tells them its OK to question religious authority. Illustrated updates will be provided to all who purchase this early pre-illustrated version.
